Many people are uniquely positioned to benefit the charitable causes and institutions most important to them and believe that private family foundations are the best answer to meeting their charitable, financial and estate planning needs. There are, however, other alternatives. You have the ability to structure your giving in three ways: either a donor-advised fund (DAF), a supporting organization (SO), or a private foundation (PF).

A DONOR-ADVISED FUND (DAF) at The Dallas Foundation (TDF) allows donors to recommend which charitable causes they would like to support. Contributions to DAFs qualify for full tax deductibility. A donor may contribute to the fund at any time and turn to the Foundation for grantmaking assistance as desired.

SUPPORTING ORGANIZATION (SO) status gives the donor many of the advantages of private foundation status with few of its disadvantages. Gifts to a SO of TDF are fully deductible at the current fair market value, including publicly traded or closely held stock, if held for more than 12 months.

PRIVATE FOUNDATIONS (PF) allow extensive donor control over distributions and board selection. But they are highly controlled by the government with many special restrictions, including administrative and reporting burdens, excise taxes, and a required minimum payout.

The chart below may help you structure a vehicle to best meet your needs.
